

Andrea Livingstone sorts out the course

On a warm Monday evening with an ocean breeze from the north, the waves rolled and ten swimmers leapt in to the sea at Little Kaiteiteri Beach. And with that the 2017 - 2018 Kaiteiteri Sea Swimming season commenced.

The inaugural Kaiteiteri Sea Swim was enjoyed by everyone who turned up with some people swimming 1.6km and others 400m, distances that suit most enthusiasts. Bouys and boats were used as markers making it easy to stick together as a group.

The aim of this group is to have friendly social swims with other like-minded swimmers with the goal to head out on "Adventure Swims" later in the season. The group are also building up to a three-race Sea Swim Series starting in late February, hosted inside Little Kaiteiteri Bay.

New swimmers are welcome to come and take part in the weekly sessions, but do note it is an informal gathering (not a club) with no safety boats so you do need to be a confident swimmer.

Every Monday at 6pm sea swimmers will meet at Ryder Reserve in Little Kaiteriteri and swim one of two routes:

a short course for people who can swim but want to build their fitness and confidence and a longer course for fitter and more adventurous swimmers.

Come and join the fun!!
